

Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) Policy incorporating Personal Development (PD) : Personal, Social, Health, Citizenship, Economic, Relationships and Health Education

This policy applies to the Junior School. For the Early Years Foundation Stage, the Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019 and the accompanying statutory guidance do not apply, however Personal Social and Emotional Development (PSED) is one of the prime areas within the EYFS curriculum and age-appropriate provision is made accordingly.

Rationale and ethos

This policy covers our approach to Relationships and Sex Education incorporating Personal Development : Personal, Social, Health, Citizenship, Economic, Relationships and Health Education. It aims to set out the purpose and intended outcomes for pupils, what is covered and how it is delivered. Relationships Education is a statutory component.

The policy was produced through consultation with Governors, teaching staff, Bootham Health Centre staff, parents and pupils between September 2019 and July 2021. Consultation took the form of meetings, discussions, questionnaires and presenting information. All parents are made aware of the policy. Parents of pupils in Year 5 and Year 6 are specifically consulted regarding the Sex Education programme on an annual basis. The policy is discussed with our link governors and reviewed by the Education Committee. This policy was reviewed in June 2022 to ensure it continues to meet the needs of pupils, staff and parents and that it is in line with the current DfE advice and guidance and will be reviewed annually for matters of fact and process.

Relationships Education, defined as learning about the many strands of relationships and growing up, includes family relationships, friendships and relationships with peers and adults, healthy and unhealthy relationships, the characteristics of positive relationships, relationships online and emotional, social and physical aspects of growing up.

Sex Education, though not compulsory, is taught in the context of the school's aims and values framework. We give information about sexual behaviour with an awareness of the moral code and values which underpin all our work in school. In particular we teach Sex Education in the belief that:

- Sex Education should be taught in the context of committed relationships (e.g. marriage, civil partnerships) and family life
- Sex Education is part of a wider social, personal, spiritual and moral education process
- pupils should be taught to have respect for their own bodies
- pupils should learn about their responsibilities to others, and be aware of the consequences of sexual activity
- it is important to build positive relationships with others, involving trust and respect
- pupils need to learn the importance of self-control

Personal, Social, Health, Citizenship and Economic Education is a planned, developmental programme of learning integrated into the curriculum through which children acquire the knowledge, understanding, concepts and skills needed to demonstrate the behaviours required to manage their lives now and in the future and to make the most of opportunities presented to them.

In Health Education, pupils learn about physical health and mental wellbeing and their connection, to give them the information they need to make good decisions about their own health and wellbeing. It should enable them to recognise what is normal and what is an issue in themselves and others and, when issues arise, know how to seek support as early as possible from appropriate sources.

All of the Department of Education's statutory requirements on Relationships Education, RSE And Health Education for Key Stages 1 and 2 are incorporated within a comprehensive Personal Development programme known by children, staff and parents as PD and will be referred to as Personal Development in this policy.

As part of a whole-school approach, Personal Development develops the qualities and attributes pupils need to thrive as individuals, family members and members of society. It is underpinned by key concepts and skills which will ensure that Bootham Junior School fulfils its statutory responsibility to support pupils' spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development and to prepare for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of life as set out in the Education Act 2002. The Personal Development programme makes a significant contribution to pupils' spiritual, moral, social and cultural (SMSC) development, their behaviour and safety and the school's statutory responsibility to promote pupils' wellbeing. The learning provided through comprehensive Personal Development provision is essential to safeguarding pupils.

Personal Development can help schools to reduce or remove many of the barriers to learning experienced by pupils, significantly improving their capacity to learn and achieve. It equips pupils with the knowledge, understanding, skills and strategies required to live healthy, safe, productive, capable, responsible and balanced lives. Personal Development encourages pupils to be enterprising and supports them in positive learning, making effective transitions and in achieving economic wellbeing as well as teaching them to care about the wider world and the environment. A critical component of Personal Development is providing opportunities for children to reflect on and clarify their own values and attitudes and to explore the complex and sometimes conflicting range of values and attitudes they encounter now and in the future.

Personal Development helps pupils to build their confidence, resilience and self-esteem, and to identify and manage risk, make informed choices and understand what influences their decisions. It enables them to recognise, accept and shape their identities, to understand and accommodate difference and change, to manage emotions and to communicate constructively in a variety of settings. The 'Big 6' Dispositions: Reflective, Collaborative, Resilient, Adventurous, Independent and Creative are an integral part of all teaching and learning across the school. Developing an understanding of themselves, empathy and the ability to work with others will assist pupils form and maintain good relationships, better enjoy and manage their lives and develop the essential skills for future employability.

Aims and Objectives

We teach Personal Development in the context of our school's ethos, aims and values. The purpose of all aspects and facets of Bootham's Quaker Education is to liberate and equip its young people to flourish as adults and live adventurous lives that will serve to create a better world. This policy seeks to support all in the Bootham School Community as we aim to fulfil this purpose.

At Bootham School we value particularly an approach to our community from all who work and learn here which:

- looks for, responds to and works hard to draw out 'that of God' in others and in themselves
- seeks to make a positive contribution to the Bootham Community and shows respect for its Quaker values, practices and heritage
- speaks with integrity of a straightforward, kind, caring and unquestionably respectful approach to others

- is wholehearted, demonstrating commitment both to being the best that they can be and to the hard work needed in rising to the challenge of high standards and high expectations
- speaks truth, placing honesty in all things as a priority and is able to resolve conflict peacefully
- is ambitious to improve the world for others - near and far - in whatever ways they can

We expect Bootham Junior School to be a school where all individuals are respected and their individuality valued in accordance with the school's Quaker ethos, its values and behavioural expectations.

Personal Development is an important and necessary part of all pupils' education. It encourages pupils to become healthy, independent, responsible and active members of a democratic society and to play a positive role in contributing to the life of the school and the wider community. In so doing, they develop their sense of self-worth. We actively promote and embed fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of the law, individual liberty, mutual respect and tolerance of different faiths and beliefs and challenge opinions and behaviours that are contrary. We teach how society is organised and governed and ensure that pupils experience the process of democracy in school through Pupil Voice. Pupils are encouraged, at all times, to express their thoughts and give their opinion to each other and staff. 'Speaking truth to power' is an important Quaker principle. We teach about responsibilities and how to distinguish right from wrong and to respect civil and criminal law of England. Pupils learn to appreciate what it means to be a positive member of a diverse multicultural society, encouraging respect for other people, paying particular regard to the protected characteristics as set out in the Equality Act 2010: age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation. We want children to learn to understand and respect our common humanity, diversity and difference so that they can form the effective, fulfilling relationships that are an essential part of life and learning.

Through our comprehensive Personal Development provision, we aim to provide pupils with:

- accurate and relevant knowledge
- opportunities to turn that knowledge into personal understanding
- opportunities to explore, clarify and, if necessary challenge, their own and others' values, attitudes, beliefs, rights and responsibilities
- the skills, language and strategies they need in order to live healthy, safe, fulfilling, responsible and balanced lives in order to:

- develop self-knowledge, self-confidence and self-esteem, and make informed choices regarding personal and social issues
- accept responsibility for their behaviour, show initiative and understand how they can contribute positively to the school, community and society
- respect fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of the law and individual liberty and show mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs and harmony between different cultural traditions by appreciating and respecting their own and other cultures
- develop knowledge and understanding of a range of relationships and characteristics of positive relationships; the ability to identify concerns and seek support
- understand the process of growing up and the changes they and others will experience
- be aware of the way humans reproduce
- respect for their own bodies and the importance of sexual activity as part of a committed, long-term and loving relationship
- develop an awareness of sex abuse and what they should do if they are worried about any sexual matters
- understand what constitutes a healthy lifestyle and be aware of safety issues and risk
- understand how safe routines can reduce the spread of viruses
- understand the value of money, how to budget, raise and spend money appropriately

Learning and Teaching

The three overlapping and linked ‘Core Themes’: 1. Health and Wellbeing 2. Relationships 3. Living in the Wider World, expressed as areas of core knowledge, understanding, language, skills and strategies, and taught in accordance with pupils’ readiness, are appropriate across the Key Stages and build upon Early Years Foundation Stage Learning. Personal Development is taught through a thematic approach, covering all three core themes in the Programme of Study over the school year. A spiral approach programme allows revisiting themes year on year and building on and extending prior learning, whilst increasing the challenge, broadening the scope, and deepening pupils’ thinking. Personal Development should respect and take account of pupils’ prior learning and experiences and should reflect the universal needs shared by all children and young people as well as the specific needs of the pupils in our school. It is essential that pupils have the opportunity to recognise and reflect on how learning is relevant to them and can be applied to their own lives and to recognise that many decisions about both health and lifestyle are made in a social context or are influenced by the attitudes, values and beliefs of significant others.

Personal Development is a rich body of knowledge which enables learners to ‘know about...’, ‘know how to...’ and also ‘be able to...’ It is integrated and interwoven into the whole school curriculum to progressively expand and enrich the fundamental concepts and essential transferable skills.

Concepts

1. Identity (their personal qualities, attitudes, skills, attributes and achievements and what influences these)
2. Relationships (including different types and in different settings)
3. Leading a healthy (including physically, emotionally, spiritually and socially) balanced lifestyle (including within relationships, work-life, exercise, rest and reflection, spending and saving and diet)
4. Risk to self, others and the wider world (identification, assessment and how to manage risk rather than simply the avoidance of risk for self and others) and safety (including behaviour and strategies to employ in different settings)
5. Diversity and equality (in all its forms)
6. Rights (including the notion of universal human rights), responsibilities (including fairness, justice and contributing to environmental health) and consent (in different contexts)
7. Change (as something to be managed) and resilience (the skills, strategies and ‘inner resources’ we can draw on when faced with change)
8. Power (how it is used and encountered in a variety of contexts including persuasion, bullying, negotiation and ‘win-win’ outcomes)
9. Career (including enterprise, employability and economic understanding including sustainable issues)

Personal Development makes a significant contribution to the development of a wide range of essential transferrable skills.

	Essential transferrable skills
Intrapersonal skills required for self-management	Interpersonal skills required for positive relationships in a wide variety of settings	Skills of enquiry
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Critical, constructive self-reflection (including being aware of own needs, motivations and learning, strengths and next steps for development, how we are influenced by our perception of peers' behaviour) 2. Learning from experience to seek out and make use of constructive feedback 3. Setting challenging personal goals (including developing strategies to achieve them and knowing when to change them) 4. Making decisions (including knowing when to be flexible) 5. Recognising some of the common ways our brains can 'trick us' or 'trap us' in unhelpful thinking (including generalisation, distortion of events, deletion of information, misconceptions or misperceptions about the behaviour of peers) 6. Resilience (including self-motivation, adaptability, constructively managing change including setbacks and stress) 7. Self-regulation (including managing strong emotions e.g. negativity and impulse) 8. Recognising and managing the need for peer approval 9. Self-organisation (including time management) 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Active listening 2. Empathy 3. Communication (non-verbal and verbal including assertiveness and recognising how this differs from aggressive and passive behaviour; being able to present and communicate ideas, arguments and thoughts effectively) 4. Team working (including agreeing clear and challenging outcomes, facilitation, co-operation, networking and the ability to provide, receive and respond to, constructive feedback and take on different roles; the ability to recognise and learn from others' experience) 5. Negotiation (including flexibility, self-advocacy and compromise) 6. Recognising and utilising strategies for managing pressure, persuasion and coercion 7. Responding to the need for positive affirmation for self and others 	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Formulating questions 2. Gathering and using data (including assessing the validity and reliability of sources of data and using a variety of sources) 3. Analysis (including separating fact from opinion) 4. Planning and deciding 5. Recalling and applying knowledge creatively and in novel situations 6. Drawing and defending conclusions using evidence and not just assertion 7. Identification, assessment (including prediction) and management of risk 8. Evaluating social norms 9. Reviewing progress against objectives

Curriculum Overview

Personal Development is taught to all pupils, whatever their ability, in order to provide a broad and balanced education. We ensure that all pupils have equal access and respond to each child's different needs by providing appropriate learning opportunities to enable pupils to develop and make progress. For pupils with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) and English as an additional language (EAL) we carefully consider teaching and learning styles, classroom organisation, resources and differentiation to ensure that all can fully access the provision. We promote gender equality and represent the LGBT community through our Relationships Education. We recognise and respect the protected characteristics of our pupils, their immediate family, close friends and the wider community, pupils' levels of maturity and personal circumstances, for example, their own sexual orientation, gender identity, faith or culture (which may, depending on their age and maturity, not be something they have yet considered or may be 'emerging.') Pupils will bring differing levels of knowledge and understanding to lessons so starting points will be assessed when teaching a new topic in order to pitch the learning at the appropriate level for pupils to maximise their understanding. Questions will be answered in an age appropriate, factual and sensitive manner depending on the circumstances.

Personal Development is taught in a variety of ways: key skills are interwoven throughout all aspects of school life (particularly in EYFS), as a separate subject and as an integral part of topic work. The curriculum in Year 6 helps prepare students for the transition to their next school. The Sex Education part of Relationships Education is taught as discrete unit by a member of the medical team from Bootham School Health Centre. Topics are introduced which are developed further as part of the Y7 curriculum at Bootham School.

As there is a large overlap between the Personal Development, RE and Science, aspects of the Personal Development are taught through RE and Science lessons. It is also very important to make links with the ICT/Computing curriculum. Pupils should recognise ways they could put themselves at risk through the use of technology. These can include risks to their emotional and physical wellbeing and safety and their personal reputation. It is important to explore the risks, the law as it pertains to the sharing and downloading of images and information and safe ways of sharing personal information, social networking, online dating and sharing images. Pupils are helped to make connections by critical reflection with their learning and life experiences.

Knowledge and understanding are interlinked and learning from one area may be pertinent to others (for example, enquiry into alcohol, drugs and tobacco use and its impact on health will enrich pupils' concept of a healthy lifestyle; their understanding of the concept of persuasion helps them to recognise the power of peer approval and the need for assertiveness skills). It is important to recognise that many lifestyle choices take place in social situations. Any aspect of Sex Education should be taught within Relationships Education, preventing and tackling bullying (including online bullying), safeguarding and equality.

It is essential that lessons are sensitive to a range of views but the school must ensure that pupils always have access to the learning they need to stay safe, healthy and understand their rights as individuals. This should include clear, impartial scientific information as well as covering the concept of, and legislation relating to, equality, to help children to realise the nature and consequences of discrimination, teasing, bullying and aggressive behaviours (including cyber bullying), use of prejudice-based language and how to respond and ask for help.

Personal Development issues, relating to specific class matters, are addressed as and when they arise. Pupils are able to participate in discussion to resolve conflicts or set agreed classroom rules of behaviour. Emphasis is placed on active learning by including the children in discussions, role play, investigation and problem-solving activities.

An additional layer of 1:1 or small group support is available from the Pastoral Care Lead. A variety of approaches and methods are available according to the needs of the children: Some children are seen individually on a regular basis and follow specific programmes e.g. to develop self-confidence / resilience / strategies to manage anger or to improve behaviour; other children engage, on a 1:1 basis, in an activity to focus on social or emotional skills and some children prefer to talk. Sometimes children work in pairs, on friendship issues for example, or in a larger group and, in some cases, as a whole class. Specific input is often needed: at the start of a new year, before residentials and on transfer to senior school. In September, all children are monitored to ensure that they have settled, have friends and that the work level is at the right level; support is given as necessary.

As curriculum time is limited, class teachers use local data (for example pupil questionnaires) and their knowledge of their own pupils' needs, to prioritise the topics that are most relevant to their pupils and make links to the class topics /themes. These will provide a relevant context for pupils to both broaden and deepen their understanding of the key concepts and to develop competence in the essential skills. It is important that pupils can see how the skills acquired through looking at one issue can be transferrable to other contexts.

Throughout the school, children have the opportunity to hear visiting speakers, such as police or representatives from different faiths, whom we visit or invite into the school, to talk about their role in creating a positive and supportive local community. Planned enrichment days, for example a visiting speaker to deliver Game of Actual Life (GOAL) to enhance Economic Education to years 3-5 will further develop and extend the Personal Development curriculum.

Our world is rapidly changing and whilst the content of Personal Development is vitally important, it can quickly date and we cannot predict the challenges, opportunities and responsibilities that pupils may face in their future. It is the concepts and essential skills that will enable pupils to manage the challenges, opportunities and responsibilities they will face now and in their future.

Links to Global Citizenship and SMSC (including British Values)

Children are encouraged to take part in a range of practical activities that promote active citizenship and social action e.g. charity fundraising, the planning of special events such as an assembly, or involvement in an activity to help less fortunate individuals or groups or people in the local community. The Y6 Stewardship programme includes opportunities for leadership and volunteering. All children in Y6 write a formal letter of application and attend interview for one of the stewardship roles: Quaker, Eco, Community, Digital, Library, Pupil Voice, Arts, House Captain and Sports Captain. Members of staff are linked with Y6 stewards to discuss their specific area of responsibility and develop an action plan to be carried out during the year. Other positions of responsibility within school are decided on a democratic basis. Pupil Voice represents the views and opinions of the children. Environmental issues are addressed by the Mini BEASTS group.

Links are being made with other schools around the world in connection with the International Schools Award and international celebrations feature in the curriculum and assemblies.

Programme of Study

During Key Stages 1 and 2, learners gradually build on the skills, attitudes and values, knowledge and understanding they have started to acquire and develop during the Early Years Foundation Stage. Personal Development offers learning opportunities and experiences which reflect the increasing independence and physical and social awareness of learners as they move through the primary phase. They learn skills to develop effective relationships, assume greater personal responsibility and keep themselves safe. It is important to remain flexible as events such as bereavement might require learning to be drawn from Key Stage 2 into Key Stages 1. Personal Development assists pupils to cope with the changes at puberty, introduces them to a wider world and enables them to make an active contribution to their communities.

The Programme of Study incorporates all of the Department of Education's statutory requirements on Relationships Education, RSE And Health Education for Key Stages 1 and 2 within a comprehensive Personal Development programme. The Long-term plan, Programme of Study learning opportunities and grids to show where each aspect of the Programme of Study is covered can be viewed at the end of the policy in Appendix A.

The Programme of Study comprises:

- A long-term plan for the year across all year groups
- Separate grids for each year group, setting out learning objectives
- Links to resources (both PSHE Association resources and resources carrying the Association's Quality Mark) that support each module

Monitoring, Assessment and Reporting

Staff delivering Personal Development will reflect critically on their teaching and pupils' learning in order to deliver the highest standard of lessons. Best practice will be shared through discussion and review, lesson observations and monitoring of planning and work. Where necessary, training opportunities will be available.

Self-assessment is an important part of learning in Personal Development. Pupils will reflect on their learning throughout lessons. Pupil voice is highly valued and teachers will take into account the comments, views and opinions when planning and delivering lessons. More emphasis will be placed upon certain aspects relevant to the needs of each class. Verbal feedback is given and advice, together with ways of further enhancing skills, is provided on an individual, group and class basis in response to active learning activities. Written comments identifying good aspects and possible areas for improvement may be relevant for some pieces of work. Homework may be set, at the discretion of the class teacher, as one of the designated homework tasks in preparation for a lesson or to follow up or consolidate classwork or as one of the choice homework activities.

Teacher assessment is made on the quality of participation and of activities undertaken. Individual tutorials take place each term where each child has the opportunity to talk with the class teacher.

Information is given to parents in the Autumn and Spring Parents' Consultation Evenings and in the annual report in the Summer Term. In addition, individual meetings may be set up with parents to address specific issues.

Resources

Resources are identified and referred to in the Programme of Study Medium Term Plans. Each class teacher has resources and further resources may be purchased from the Personal Development budget, in negotiation with the Personal Development Coordinator. Advice and support and a selection of additional reference materials are available from the Personal Development Coordinator.

Confidentiality and Safeguarding

We will ensure a safe learning environment by agreeing ground rules and reminding children of these at the start of lessons. Special consideration will be given when teaching areas with sensitive content. We aim to create and maintain a safe environment within which all children will be able to ask questions and discuss matters in an open manner. Opportunities will be provided for confidential matters related to the content of the lesson to be discussed. Each class has a 'Sunshine Pot' / 'Worry Box' which enables pupils to communicate any issues with the teacher on a one to one basis. Distancing techniques will enable pupils to discuss fictional characters and scenarios. Staff delivering Personal Development will ensure the pupils, who indicate they may be at risk, get appropriate pastoral support by liaising and adhering to the school's Safeguarding Policy. All visitors and external agencies will be subject to DBS checks and will be made aware of what to do in the event of a disclosure being made.

Involving Parents and Carers

This policy is available to view on the school Website and Parents' portal and was sent to all parents prior to its adoption. We highly value the partnership between school and home: we wish to build a positive and supporting relationship through mutual understanding, trust and cooperation and promote open and informative two-way communication. We aim to provide parents and carers with accurate information about what their child is learning in school and to provide the best learning environment and opportunities for our children. Parents and carers have the right to withdraw their child from some or all aspects of Sex Education. If a parent or carer wishes their child to be withdrawn from Sex Education lessons, they should discuss this with the Headteacher and make it clear which aspects of the programme they do not wish their child to participate in. The school always complies with the wishes of parents in this regard and the specific needs of the pupil will be taken into consideration.

Roles and Responsibilities

Personal Development is taught by Class Teachers and also by the Personal Development Coordinator in Years 3-6. Links are made by subject specialists, for example, in PE. It is led and monitored by the Personal Development Coordinator. We encourage other valued members of the community to work with us to provide advice and support to pupils with regard to Health Education. In particular, members of Bootham School medical staff and other health professionals, give us valuable support with our Sex Education programme. Specialist staff will be brought in when required for other specific aspects.

The school governor representatives responsible are Rosemary Roberts and Sarah Coltman.

Governing bodies have wider responsibilities under the Equalities Act 2010 and should ensure that their school strives to do the best for all of the pupils, irrespective of age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, sexual orientation or whether they are looked after children. This means that Relationships and Sex Education must be sensitive to the different needs of individual pupils and may need to evolve and adapt over time as the pupil population changes.

It is the responsibility of the Headteacher to ensure that both staff and parents are informed about Personal Development in our school and that the policy is implemented effectively.

Legislation

Under the Education Act 2002, all schools must provide a balanced and broadly-based curriculum which:

- promotes the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of pupils at the school and of society
- prepares pupils at the school for opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of later life

From September 2020 Relationships Education is a statutory requirement.

Documents that inform this policy include:

- Education Act 1996, 2002
- Learning and Skills Act 2000
- Education and Inspections Act 2006

H50. about the organisations that can support people concerning alcohol, tobacco and nicotine or other drug use; people they can talk to if they have concerns

² Common injuries might include bruises, scalds, burns, bleeds (cuts or nose bleeds). Schools might also choose to teach about how to manage asthma attacks, allergic reactions, a person who is choking or unresponsive. For head injuries, pupils should be taught to seek adult help immediately but not to attempt to move the person.

³ Teaching about FGM could be included in units on health, keeping safe, safe relationships, privacy, body parts (including external genitalia).
